Understanding the Game

The "Were Not Really Strangers" game was created by Koreen Odiney in 2018. Initially designed as a card game to enhance connections between strangers, it has since evolved to include various editions, including the Friendship Edition. The game is built around the idea that vulnerability and openness can lead to deeper relationships.

Gameplay Overview

The game is played with a deck of cards, each containing thought-provoking questions and prompts. The players take turns drawing cards and answering the questions, promoting honest and heartfelt conversations. The structure of the game is designed to help players gradually open up, moving from lighter topics to deeper, more introspective questions.

4. Fosters Empathy

The questions encourage players to listen actively and empathetically. Understanding a friend's perspective can lead to greater compassion and support, creating a more nurturing environment within the friendship.

5. Provides Meaningful Reflection

The reflective nature of the questions allows individuals to contemplate their own values and beliefs about friendships. This can lead to personal growth and a clearer understanding of what one seeks in their relationships.

How to Use These Questions Effectively

To maximize the benefits of the Friendship Edition questions, consider the following tips:

1. Choose the Right Setting

Select a comfortable and private setting where both friends can feel at ease. This could be a quiet café, a cozy living room, or even during a nature walk. The right atmosphere can enhance the openness of the conversation.

2. Be Present

Put away distractions such as phones or other electronic devices. Being present in the moment allows for more meaningful interactions and shows respect for each other's time and feelings.

3. Take Turns

Encourage a balanced exchange by taking turns answering questions. This ensures that both individuals have the opportunity to share and listen, fostering a more equitable discussion.

4. Embrace Vulnerability

Be open to sharing personal experiences and emotions. The more vulnerable you are, the more likely your friend will feel comfortable doing the same.
